

School District of New Auburn

This publication is a requirement of ESEA or "No Child Left Behind" Law

No Child Left Behind requires that all teachers who teach in a core subject area be "highly qualified" by June 30, 2006. Until then, your child's teacher may be in the process of becoming highly qualified as defined by the law, even if they have been successfully teaching for years. If this should occur, you may ask what steps your school has taken to ensure that all teachers will be highly qualified by 2006. Each school must have a plan in place to ensure that its faculty is highly qualified. There may be instances, however, when your school cannot hire highly qualified teachers in certain subjects because of a lack of teachers available. This circumstance will not entitle you to request a different teacher or to transfer to another school, but you are urged to work with your school administrator in helping to recruit highly qualified teachers to your school.

For the 2015-2016 school year all of the teachers employed by the School District of New Auburn are "highly qualified".
